The Vienna School of Clinical Research (VSCR) is a non-profit educational institute providing ongoing training and education to clinical research professionals. The VSCR is proud to have established itself as an independent and objective institution that operates around the globe, providing education to the highest scientific, ethical and quality standards.

Our educational programme optimises clinical research, minimizing risk by ensuring personnel are adequately trained by our international faculty of experts. The VSCR serves as a gateway for representatives from European and American medical institutions to build relationships and help support the further development of countries in Central and Eastern Europe, the Middle East, Asia and Africa through training and education.

Following our mission, we do provide scholarships for individual delegates not having sufficient funding for attending our courses. Individuals who are not employed by the private sector are welcome to apply, the applications are reviewed by the VSCR Selection Committee and the most promising and deserving candidates will be selected.
